UK Wholesale Beef Market Commentary

Friday

Source: Urner Barry

- The UK beef market has been weaker across the PGI, UTM, and OTM complex this week compared to the week before.
- Chuck, blade and shoulder, shin and shank categories noted a steady to weaker tone with ample supplies on the market. The market's stagnancy is driven by sluggish demand with not too much movement on beef prices. Similar trend was noticed in sirloin and fillets segment.
- Another segment which exhibited a bearish tone was the round cuts. However, some of the roasting beef cuts traded strong such as PAD topside.
- A slight upward momentum in demand was seen in flank and skirt category leading to a substantial price increase in boneless flank. Most of the VLs moved upwards with warm weather in the UK.
- According to market participants, VL prices could increase in next few weeks with an upsurge in demand prior to barbeque season.
- The demand for other cuts such as whole chuck, chuck rolls and featherblade could also be supported with these cuts being sent to trims processing in case of shortages.
- Cow, heifers and steers continue to trend lower for a few weeks now.
